Wednesday, 10th May

Report of the 1st of May 1914

The first of May was a very fine day, with a light breeze and a few clouds.

We went for a walk in the park, and saw many beautiful flowers beginning to bloom.

The children were very happy, and played for hours in the grass.

We saw many beautiful butterflies, and a few bees.
